Inhouse Consulting at Deutsche Post World Net is a highly qualified and autonomous consulting unit. We develop and successfully deliver strategic projects. Our goal: to transform the group into the worldwide leader in logistic services, and a major provider of eBusiness and financial services.

Our team in Bonn is looking for

Consultants (m/f)

(Reference: 011-762-Talents)

Your task is to develop integrated strategies throughout the group, boost the new market potential of eBusiness and optimize the process of our continuing international expansion. You will be working together with our top executives from all major business fields.

You have an excellent degree and preferably possess a further qualification such as a doctorate or MBA. You have gained international experience, either as part of your studies or during your first job and speak German and English fluently. You enjoy working in a young and motivated team and with your analytical skills you find successful solutions to complex problems.

Get moving with us.

Please send your application in German or English.

At the right place, at the right time: the Deutsche Post World Net group, with its brands Deutsche Post, DHL and Deutsche Postbank, is one of the world's largest and most competitive logistics providers. From 2003 on, our express, parcels and logistics businesses are being brought together under the global brand DHL.

Our employees are the foundation of our success.
